MS. SMITH: Objection; form.

THE WITNESS: The defects that I'm complaining about are specifically the -- the fact that the Samsung phone resets. It will do a reboot cycle as if you had powered it off and powered it on when the phone falls asleep.

19 BY MR. VOLNEY:

20 Q. Okay. What else?

> A. For this case? That's, I believe, it. Or at least that's the main -- the main reason for this case.

23 The phone has other issues too, but those are not in this 24 case

Q. Well, I've looked at a bunch of your e-mails and

Q. Did the phone function -- well, here's the question: So when you do go back to factory default on a -- on a cell phone, it's my understanding -- and I'm asking you -- does it wipe out any third-party apps that you put on the phone?

MS. SMITH: Objection; form.

THE WITNESS: It does for me, yes. It wipes out all of the third-party apps, and -- and it should wipe out all of the data.

21 THE WITNESS: No, it did not. Let me restate 22

23 Restoring it to factory defaults cleaned up some 24 small issues, possibly, with -- I don't know what. But it 25

Q. So why don't I just ask this question: What issues did you raise with Sprint while you were using the phone?

MS. SMITH: Objection; form.

THE WITNESS: I don't recall -- I certainly don't recall all of them, but I had some issues with the speakerphone, I think, like right at the beginning. That

Some crashes where you'd have to take the battery out and put it back in to get the phone to reset.

And it would -- I think it would freeze from time to time as well. But again, mostly it was remedied by

Q. Let's -- let's talk a little bit about that last statement you made.

How is it that you concluded that Sprint was an authorized phone service facility for Samsung?

A. No. I understand.

Q. That's all for the Court to decide.

Even if you assume that Sprint is an authorized phone service facility, which is what you've told me that you understood to be the case, right?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. You never relinquished your phone to Sprint for it to be repaired or replaced, right?

MS. SMITH: Objection; form.

THE WITNESS: I never relinquished my phone to them to repair or replace it overnight; however, they have -- they have had my phone and -- and took it back to their service bay.

So in that case, yes, I have relinquished my phone to them for the short time that they looked at it and handed it back, factory reset.
